

Exhibit 87

Hello, my name is Salwinder, and I bought this pair of Nike Air Force 1 Low '07 Essential - White Black Gold Mini Swoosh (number 41, US size 9.5 W) on the 24.11.2021 for the price of 120 €+ shipping, for a total amount of 139,40€, order number 29791557-29691316. I just received them today, the 02.12.2021, and I was so disappointed in finding out that they are not even original. Therefore, I would like to send them back and request a refund for the whole price, that means 139,40€.

Here attached, you will find a ZIP file, from which you can extrapolate all the photos of this very well-made fake sneakers. As you can see from the photos, the StockX Verification Tag is still attached to the sneakers.

The defects are noticeable in the photos highlighted with the corresponding name on the top corner of each photo. Moreover, they are summarized in the following points:

1. First, the gold colour on the little Nike Swoosh is definitely not the same as the one you see in the photos on the websites but much lighter and 'not very shiny'. → (see photo 23.HEIC)
2. From the rear you can see that the NIKE swoosh and the "A I R" writing are very thin and not well defined as they are on the original ones (the stitching is defective and not precise). On the back of the left shoe, the "A I R" writing is too high and is touching the Nike Swoosh (there is no space). The letters "A" and "R" in the "A I R" writing are not even accurate, with the seams all sticking out. In the right rear shoe, the "I" in the "A I R" lettering is mismatched and sticking out. In addition, in the left shoe, the glue on the top of the sole is clearly visible. → (see photo 7.HEIC)
3. The holes in the shoes where the laces go through are obviously defective and of different sizes. In the originals they are never like this (yes I own an original pair of the same kind, which I used as a benchmark) → (see photos 12.HEIC)
4. On the inside of the left shoe, you can clearly see the glue is poorly placed. → (see photo 19.HEIC).
5. From the outside of the left shoe, the NIKE swoosh is not as precisely shaped as it is on the originals, to the extent that the stitching even comes out of the shape of the swoosh. → (see 23.HEIC)
6. From the front, one can clearly see from the photos that the sole of the left shoe (in the photo it appears on the right) has a defective/wavy shape that tends downwards, compared to the sole of the right shoe which is normal (in the photo it appears on the left). → (see photo 14.HEIC)
7. From the picture taken inside the shoes you can see all the light coming in through the holes where the external stitching are (in my other original pair of shoes you can't see them). → (see photo 18.HEIC).
8. The internal Tag of the shoes indicating the various show sized in different countries is FAKE (see original in Image "Original Internal TAG.jpg"). → (see Internal TAG.HEIC and TAG.HEIC).

P.S.

Sorry but I didn't quite understand your statement below (that I highlighted btw) We do know it can be disappointing when the item you receive isn't exactly what you expected. ♦ Are you making fun of me???? I paid 140€ to receive an original pair of Nike Air Force, not a copy/replica!!! If you think you can advertise 100% original certified sneakers (that you said that you even verified and authenticated, that's incredible!!!) and then sell me replicas/fake copies, you are not gonna have me as a customer ever again!! I'll make sure other people know what happened here too!!! I want to resolve this issue and get a refund, as I did my part and paid REAL money, but not to be mocked like this!!! You can't advertise lies!!
